Fiction & Non-Fiction

WEIDENFELD & NICOLSON is one of the most prestigious and dynamic literary imprints in British and international publishing, home of groundbreaking, award-winning, thought-provoking books since 1949.

Our passion for extraordinary writing dates back to our two founders, who were responsible for introducing some of the twentieth century's most remarkable voices – Vladimir Nabokov, Isaiah Berlin, Sybille Bedford, Eric Hobsbawm, Edna O'Brien, Jorge Luis Borges and many others – to a wide readership. They launched their publishing house with the idea of building bridges and opening minds through exceptional works of literature: we have been carrying on their legacy ever since.

We publish history, memoir, ideas, popular science, biography, narrative non-fiction, crime and thrillers, translated fiction and literary fiction of all kinds.

The Ambassadors

Thinking about Diplomacy from Richelieu to Modern Times

Robert Cooper

London, UK

Who were the great diplomats of history – and what can their achievements tell us about the most important issues of our time?

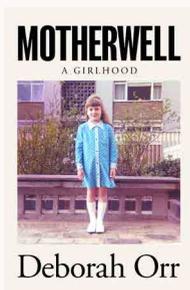

History does not run in straight lines. It is made by men and women and by accident. Instead of inevitable progress, what we get is more often false starts, random events and good intentions that go wrong. This book is a vivid history of diplomacy: it focuses on the concrete, looking where problems, personalities and ideas meet. And, through examinations of key diplomatic events, including discussions on the slave trade and the Cuban Missile Crisis, looks at how diplomacy has shaped our modern world.

SIR ROBERT COOPER is a British diplomat, currently serving as a Special Advisor at the European Commission with regard to Myanmar. He is also an acclaimed writer on international relations.

Motherwell

A Girlhood

Deborah Orr

London, UK

@DeborahJaneOrr

A stunning literary memoir about Deborah Orr's relationship with her complicated mother and her childhood

When Deborah Orr left Motherwell - the town she both loved and hated - for university, her mother, Win, railed against the decision. Win had little agency in the world, every choice determined by the men in her life. And strangely, she wanted the same for her daughter. But while she managed to escape, Deborah's severing from her family was superficial. She continued to travel back to Motherwell, fantasizing about the day that Win might come to accept her as good enough. Though of course it was never meant to be.

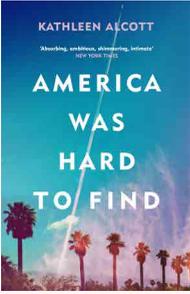

DEBORAH ORR is an award-winning journalist, whose work has regularly appeared in the Guardian, the Independent, the Sunday Times and in many magazines including Vogue, Grazia and Marie Claire.

America Was Hard to Find

Kathleen Alcott

Brooklyn, USA
www.kathleenalcott.com

In the wake of an affair, the lives of an astronaut and a radical are forever altered by the political fault lines of the 1960s

A casual affair between Vincent, an astronaut, and Fay, a radical activist, has lingering consequences, as both become heroes to different sides of the political spectrum of the 1960s and 70s: Vincent an icon with no plan beyond the mission, Fay a leader of a violent leftist group. Through a vivid reimagining of this sprawling era, from anti-Vietnam activism to the Apollo programme to the AIDS crisis, this multigenerational novel explores the meaning of individual lives in times of upheaval.

KATHLEEN ALCOTT is the author of the novels Infinite Home and The Dangers of Proximal Alphabets. Her work has appeared in The New York Times, the Guardian and The New Yorker online.

Red At The Bone

Jacqueline Woodson

New York, USA

A teenage pregnancy pulls together two families from different social classes in National Book Award winner Jacqueline Woodson's powerful new novel

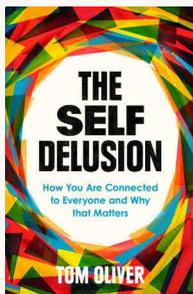

Brooklyn, 2001. It is the evening of sixteen-year-old Melody's coming-of-age ceremony in her grandparents' brownstone. She wears a custom-made dress - the same dress that was sewn for Melody's mother, for a celebration that never took place.

Unfurling the history of Melody's parents and grandparents - from the 1921 Tulsa massacre to post-9/11 New York - Red at the Bone explores sexual desire, identity, class and the life-altering facts of parenthood, as it looks at the decisions young people must so often make - even before they have figured out who they are.

JACQUELINE WOODSON is the author of more than two dozen award-winning books, including her National Book Award-winning memoir Brown Girl Dreaming. She lives with her family in Brooklyn, New York.

The Self Delusion

The Surprising Science of How We Are Connected and Why that Matters

Tom Oliver

Wallingford, UK

 @Tom_H_Oliver

An explosive popular science book exploring the overwhelming evidence contradicting the perception we have of ourselves as independent beings

We like to believe that we exist as independent selves at the centre of a subjective universe. This is an illusion, and on a physical, psychological and cultural level, we are all much more intertwined than we know. Tom Oliver makes the compelling argument that we have a better chance of facing some of the biggest global challenges ahead if we can start to understand and accept the complex connections between us and see beyond our individualistic mindsets to view our place in the world as it really is.

 @roberttwigger

A journey on foot due north from Stonehenge to Lindisfarne to discover the mysteries of our ancient past

Lay out a map of Britain and something odd becomes apparent: at 1 degree 50 minutes west there is a dead straight line going true north from Stonehenge to Lindisfarne, two of Britain's most ancient sites.

But the significance of the Great North Line has been forgotten. Robert Twigger has travelled this ancient line on foot. Sticking as closely as possible to the meridian, he answers the questions raised by this most mysterious and ancient of British lines.

How to Argue With a Racist

History, Science,
Race and Reality

Adam Rutherford

London, UK
www.adamrutherford.com

A vital manifesto by the author of A Brief History of Everyone Who Ever Lived

The appeal to science to strengthen racist ideologies is on the rise – and increasingly a part of the public discourse. Yet, if understood correctly, science and history can be powerful allies against racism, granting the clearest view of how people actually are, rather than how we judge them to be.

How to Argue With a Racist is an illuminating manifesto for a twenty-first century understanding of human evolution and variation, and a timely weapon against the misuse of science to justify bigotry.

Grégoire Delacourt

Paris, France

www.gregoire-delacourt.com

A charming and thought-provoking novel about a woman who can't age, by internationally bestselling author Grégoire Delacourt

There are those who never grow old because they are taken too soon.

Others grow old without worries, enjoying everything life has to offer.

Many desperately try to slow down the ticking clock.

And then there's Betty, who mysteriously stops growing old on her thirtieth birthday – the same age as her mother when she died.

The years leave no trace on Betty's face, but as everyone around her is transformed by the relentless march of time, her once golden life begins to come apart.

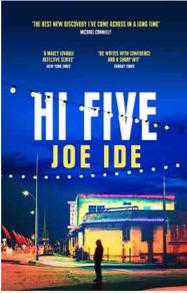

GRÉGOIRE DELACOURT is the bestselling author of five novels including The First Thing You See and The List of My Desires. He lives in Paris, where he runs an advertising agency with his wife.

Here Comes the Miracle

Anna Beecher

London, UK

@AnnaBeecher

An emotional literary debut about a life cut short by cancer, and a love cut short by fear and social pressure

A profoundly beautiful story about two men separated by generations: Joe longs for a boyfriend and plays the violin magnificently. Edward falls in love with his best friend in a nettle-infested garden before starting a family and becoming a grandfather.

When Joe is diagnosed with Stage 4 cancer, his sister and grandfather, Edward, are left waiting for a miracle. A miracle that won't come. Intensely moving, this book is about love and loss; and about the beautiful and violent randomness of life.

Paolo Giordano

Italy

An epic story of enduring love, friendship and the all-too-human search for meaning – set in the hypnotic heat of Puglia

Every year, after her school closes for the summer holidays, Teresa follows her father to Speziale, Puglia, and endures weeks of relentless heat and boredom.

But everything changes the summer she meets Nicola, Tommaso and strange, charismatic Bern – whom Teresa will love for the rest of her life.

But things are not always what they seem. No bond is unbreakable, and as each of the boys struggles to find his place in the world, their friendship will be tested to breaking point.

What Policing Has to Tell Us About Life, Death and Everything in Between

John Sutherland

London, UK

policecommander.wordpress.com

@policecommander

A thought-provoking look at the biggest challenges facing society through the unique lens of an experienced police officer and hostage negotiator

As a police officer in the Met, John Sutherland spent his working life trying to help some of the most troubled and troubling people in society. Accompanying John to places that would otherwise remain beyond our view – and our understanding – Crossing the Line offers an alternative portrait of Britain, and sheds light on some of the most pressing issues we are facing today. Drug abuse, domestic violence, violent extremism, alcoholism, knife crime – all are discussed in this fascinating new book.

JOHN SUTHERLAND served as a Metropolitan Police Officer for over twenty-five years. His first book, Blue, was a Sunday Times bestseller.

Niamh Campbell

Dublin, Ireland

From an exciting new voice in contemporary literary fiction, a glowing-hot novel about relationships and the way the past informs the present

Alannah is six months married, but she can't shake the memory of the summer spent in a cottage with a married man over six years ago. A chance passing-by on the streets of Dublin sends her down an emotional rabbit hole and a circuitous journey into her past that has, and will, inform her present. She finds herself going over resurgent memories of the days spent in bliss, then torture, that refuse to be forgotten.

NIAMH CAMPBELL's short fiction and essays have appeared in The Dublin Review, 3:AM Magazine, The Penny Dreadful and Banshee. She was awarded a Next Generation literary bursary by the Arts Council of Ireland in 2016.

A fascinating investigation into the origins of cancer and how genetics holds the key to us overcoming it

Cancer has always been with us. It killed our hominid ancestors, the mammals they evolved from and the dinosaurs that trampled the ground before that. It is the enemy lurking within almost every living creature. Geneticist and science writer Kat Arney takes us to the dawn of life on Planet Earth right up to the present day to get to the heart of what cancer really is and how by better understanding it we might one day overcome it.

Revolutions

How Women Changed the World on Two Wheels

Hannah Ross

London, UK
@HannahVRoss

A gloriously celebratory and inspirational book about the women who broke from convention and cycled their way to freedom

Simone de Beauvoir borrowed her lover's bike to cycle around Paris in the 1940s. Alice Hawkins used her bicycle to recruit women to fight for women's suffrage. Annie Kopchovsky, a 24-year-old Latvian immigrant living in Boston, became the first woman to cycle around the world. Many of these women were told they couldn't or shouldn't cycle, but they did so anyway. Revolutions introduces us to the women who are part of the rich and varied history of cycling, many of whom have been pushed to the margins or forgotten.

HANNAH ROSS is a dedicated cyclist who thinks nothing of cycling across the Alps. She works as the Director of Publicity at Profile Books. She also volunteers for a charity helping refugee women in London learn to ride bikes.

The compelling second book in the Teresa Battaglia series

The past brings Teresa Battaglia a new case to be solved in the form of a portrait painted during the final days of the Second World War.

The painting is called The Sleeping Nymph, and it's a work of shocking beauty – painted with blood. It serves as the only witness to a murder that occurred in 1945. There is no body to confirm it and no confession, but only this faint trace of blood, leading to the shadow of someone who wants to protect a sacred secret.

A concise guide to the world of mathematics, connecting it to philosophy, psychology and history

Thousands of years ago the inhabitants of Mesopotamia became the first to use numbers. Since then, mathematics has been unstoppable. It's behind almost everything, from search-engines to cruise-control, from coffeemakers to timetables. But now that we hardly ever need to do arithmetic any longer, how relevant is mathematics to everyday life?

Pluses and Minuses demonstrates the role mathematics plays in everyday human endeavour. Without knowledge of the ideas behind mathematical calculations we shall find ourselves sidelined.

A memoir about grief, fatherhood, identity and falling in love with an abandoned magpie

One spring day a baby magpie fell out of its nest and into Charlie Gilmour's life. Benzene Dreams is the story of this love affair between man and bird. It is also about freedom and captivity; adoption and parenthood; birth and death. Abandoned as a baby by his father, Heathcote Williams, Charlie was adopted by his mother's new husband, David Gilmour of Pink Floyd. Exploring the extent to which we are doomed to repeat the sins of our fathers, Benzene Dreams is ultimately about the triumph of nurture over nature.

@ChrisFrantzTTC

Remain in Light tells the story of two bands and a love story (and marriage) that survived them both

Chris Frantz met David Byrne at art school in the early 1970s. Together - and soon with Frantz's future wife, Tina Weymouth - they formed Talking Heads and took up residence in the grimy environs of Manhattan's Lower East Side, where their neighbours were Patti Smith, William Burroughs and their early albums quickly became classics; until the Brian Eno produced masterpiece Remain in Light, saw them explode.

Warm and candid, funny and heartfelt, Remain in Light charts the rise and fall of a band who combined the sensibility of artists with extraordinary songwriting vision. A classic 1970s downtown New York memoir and a book which shares secrets and stories Talking Heads fans have been curious about for decades.

A sinister thriller exploring the aftermath of a fatal car crash

Ben is driving on the motorway, on his usual commute to the school where he works. A day like any other...

Except for one man who, in a final despairing act, jumps in front of Ben's car, turning the teacher's world upside down.

Wracked with guilt and desperate to clear his conscience, he develops a friendship with Alice, the dead man's wife, and her 7-year-old son Max.

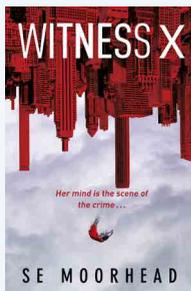

But as he tries to escape the trauma of the wreckage, could he go too far in trying to make amends?

Witness X

S.E. Moorhead

Liverpool, England

A genre-bending thriller for fans of Netflix's Altered Carbon, Dark and Mindhunter

Fourteen years ago, the police caged a notorious serial killer who abducted and butchered two victims every February. When a new body is discovered, and a second person is reported missing, the race is on to catch the real killer. Neuropsychologist Kyra Sullivan, a police psychologist on the original investigation, fights to use a new technology that accesses the minds of the original witnesses. Will Kyra discover the truth and, if so, at what cost?

Witness X is a brilliantly twisty tale that is at once mind-bendingly strange and profoundly human.

Alien technology, a soldier determined to protect his family, and a thief who is prepared to burn the world down ...

Vakov Fukasawa used to be a Reaper: a bio-enhanced soldier fighting for the Harmony. He's still fighting now, on a different battlefield: taking on stormtech. To make him a perfect soldier, the Harmony injected him with the DNA of an extinct alien race, altering his body chemistry and leaving him permanently addicted to adrenaline and aggression.

Vakov may have walked away from the Harmony, but they still know where to find him, and his former Reaper colleagues are being murdered by someone, or something...

A riotous semi-historical romp through seventeenth-century France in the company of Julie d'Aubigny

The story of Julie D'Aubigny is well known. Connected to most of the nobility of seventeenth-century Paris, feted for her performance, unwilling to live by the rules of her society, she took female lovers, fought duels with noblemen and fled from city to country and back again.

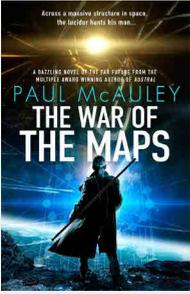

But now the real truth can be told. She also made a deal with the devil. He gave her no powers or help, but he kept her alive for only one reason. To take revenge...

A dark and literary tale from one of the genre's most lauded authors

Shaw had a breakdown a while ago, but he's getting himself back together now. He has a small room in a shared house in South London, a mother at the end of dementia, and a new job selling strange bottles of murky water for a man who seems to think that something strange is happening to the water of London, and to the human race. Victoria and Shaw were in a relationship, for a while, but now she's left London and moved into the old Shropshire home of her recently deceased mother. As she adapts to this new way of living, she begins to make friends and learn about the last years of her mother's life. But not everyone she meets is normal, and she begins to catch glimpses of watery, otherworldly, oddly green children.

MICHAEL JOHN HARRISON has won the Boardman Tasker Award (Climbers), the James Tiptree Jr Award (Light) and the Arthur C. Clarke Award (Nova Swing).

Eight months after her husband Euan tried to commit suicide, Hannah Stornoway is living with a man who has no memory of her.

Her last hope is a controversial group of medical pioneers led by Dr Cal. But as the treatment progresses, Euan's memories become dark and corrupted, while Dr Cal isn't telling the whole story.

As their shared memories collapse around them, and the reasons for Euan's attempted suicide become clear, Hannah starts to question how much she ever really knew about her husband.

The new compulsive historical adventure from Sunday Times bestselling author Ben Kane...

1179. Henry II's Norman conquerors have swept through England, Wales – and now Ireland.

Irish nobleman Ferdia has been imprisoned in Wales, but during a skirmish on a neighbouring castle, Ferdia saves the life of the man who would become one of the most legendary warriors ever: Richard Plantagenet. The Lionheart.

But, infuriated by his younger brother Richard's growing reputation, Henry rebels. And Ferdia learns that the biggest threat to Richard's life may not be a foreign army – but Richard's own family...

BEN KANE's passion for history writing has taken him to over sixty countries, and all seven continents. Ben lives in Somerset with his wife and children, where he writes full-time.

In a village still reeling from war, eight people come together with one shared passion – Jane Austen

1943. In Austen's own village of Chawton, in the shadow of war, eight people are drawn together to preserve Jane Austen's house and legacy: a young widow, a farmer, a village doctor, a local solicitor, a house-girl at the Knight estate, a lonely heiress, a Sotheby's employee and a glamorous Hollywood actress.

As each of them negotiates the social, romantic and cultural collisions that ensue, they all begin to find new inspiration in Austen's beloved novels, and perhaps even a chance of happiness...

What Makes Us Stronger

Freya Lewis

Cheshire, UK

The extraordinary story of how 14-year-old Freya survived the Manchester bombings

Freya Lewis was just three metres away from the terrorist who detonated the bomb at the Manchester arena on the night of 22 May 2017.

Her best friend Nell, who she'd been linking arms with at the time, was tragically killed, but Freya – thrown forward by the blast – somehow survived. Freya's extraordinary story shows that whilst the attack represented the very darkest side of humanity, it also gave her the opportunity to witness the very best it has to offer.

Since 2017, FREYA LEWIS and her family have raised £60,000 for Royal Manchester Children's Hospital. She received the 2018 NHS Hero Young Fundraiser Award and the Amplifon awards for Young Hero and Overall Hero.

A Daughter's Culinary Memoir

Fanny Singer

London, UK
@fannysinger

A cookbook and culinary memoir about growing up as the daughter of revered chef/restaurateur Alice Waters

In this extraordinarily intimate portrait of her mother – and herself – Fanny Singer, daughter of food icon and activist Alice Waters, chronicles a unique world of food, wine and travel; a world filled with colourful characters, mouth-watering traditions, sumptuous feasts as well as the bond between mother and daughter.

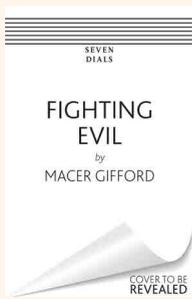

Across dozens of vignettes with accompanying recipes, she shares the story of her own culinary coming of age, and reveals a side of her legendary mother that has never been seen before.

FANNY SINGER is a writer, curator and passionate home cook based in London. She has worked in countless restaurants, including her mother's, Chez Panisse in California.

Fighting Evil The British City Broker Who Went to War Against ISIS

Macer Gifford

London, UK
@macergifford

A visceral, riveting, no-holds-barred memoir of an ordinary man's war against ISIS

In 2014, as the black flag of ISIS swept aside all before it, Macer Gifford felt compelled to act – leaving his city job, family and girlfriend to join the Kurdish YPG in their fight against the savagery of ISIS.

Macer became the longest serving British International Volunteer and the only one to be promoted to the position of Commander. He fought alongside the Kurds for three gruelling tours of duty from the dawn of the caliphate to its decisive military defeat in the ruins of Raqqa in 2017. This is his extraordinary and explosive story.

A former foreign exchange trader, MACER GIFFORD has become the most well-known International Volunteer battling ISIS. He has written for publications and appeared on radio channels worldwide, while garnering over 45,000 online followers.

One Day in April Hillsborough – A Mother's Story

Jenni Hicks & Charlotte
Atyeo

Liverpool, UK

A mother's heart-rending account of losing her daughters in the Hillsborough disaster, her thirty-year quest for justice and her journey to rebuild her life

On the morning of Saturday 15 April 1989, Jenni Hicks, her husband and their two teenage daughters, Sarah and Vicki, went to watch a football match. That was to be their last day as a family.

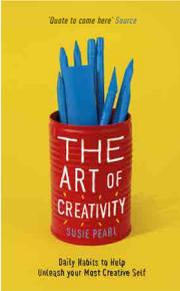

But this is not the story of the Hillsborough tragedy. This is a story of what came before and after that day: of a mother's love, her unimaginable bravery, a flame of hope that never died and a quest for justice that has lasted three decades.

JENNI HICKS is the longest serving committee member of the Hillsborough Families Support Group and continues to fight and campaign for justice for her daughters and the other ninety-four victims of the Hillsborough disaster.
